INDEMNIFICATION: You agree to defend, indemnify and hold harmless Dr. Stagg, Claire Stagg DDS PA, Dental Connections Unlimited LLC, our websites, and our officers, directors, employees, contractors, agents, licensors, and affiliates and licensors from and against any claims, liabilities, damages, judgments, awards, losses, costs, expenses or fees (including reasonable attorneys' fees) resulting from your violation of these Terms of Use & Service, or your use of any of our websites, including, without limitation, any use of our website content, resources, services or goods purchased through any of our websites.

We do not link this automatically collected data to other information we collect about you.

EARNINGS & INCOME DISCLAIMER + UTILIZING DR. STAGG'S RECOMMENDATIONS

- We do NOT promote resources as favors to individuals or organizations who simply seek your eyeballs. Dr. Stagg only provides external links to resources from others that she believes have the potential to be particularly useful for certain people and needs. Only you can know which of these resources might be useful to you, and when they might be of the greatest use to you.
- Some of the resources Dr. Stagg recommends are free. Others are for purchase. Of those, some we don't make money from recommending, while others do generate revenue for us. What you can be sure of is Dr. Stagg's dedication to providing visibility for the best resources she knows of, regardless of whether or not she stands to gain financially from doing so. She also does her best to provide education about resources she recommends, because she wants you to make informed choices on your own behalf, rather than feel manipulated into purchasing things you don't need at this time — or perhaps ever.
- In light of all of the factors that impinge on the very nature of income-producing products and services, there is no way to guarantee results of any kind whatsoever. Accordingly, we affirmatively declare that we make no guarantees as to your earnings & income of any kind, at any time.
- As with any business endeavor or investment, past performance is no guarantee or predictor of future performance. Any testimonials or other representations of results are for illustrative purposes only and, though every effort is made to ensure they're factually honest, they are not intended to imply or insinuate what is likely to happen with you. Your reliance on them as such is not advised.
- It should be noted that "earnings & income" is so phrased with specific intent. While income may typify the earnings most either seek or are accustomed to, earnings can come in non-monetary forms. These include some forms that are abstract or intangible, and thus not even readily converted to currency or a common medium of exchange. Thus, note that all manner of compensation, including earnings of a non-income yet nevertheless beneficial form, are covered by these provisions.

FEDERAL TRADE COMMISSION (FTC) COMPLIANCE STATEMENT

- Dental Connections Unlimited, LLC. / Claire Stagg DDS PA, embrace the intentions, guidelines and requirements of the Federal Trade Commission (FTC) for the benefit of all. With that in mind we provide the following disclosures regarding compensation and disclaimers regarding earnings & income. This FTC compliance information pertains to all Dental Connections Unlimited, LLC. / Claire Stagg DDS PA websites, including this website.
- As a matter of personal integrity, and not ‘merely’ FTC compliance, Health Connections Dentistry / Claire Stagg DDS are committed to full transparency regarding the products and services we use, recommend, or otherwise mention on our websites. We strive to clearly differentiate between our own products and services, and those created or provided by other business entities. And, just as we profit from selling our own products and services on our websites, so do we also profit from recommending and/or selling some (but not all) of the products and services we feature on our websites.
- Further, we endeavor to provide full informed consent regarding all products and services featured on all of our websites, regardless of whether they are from us or others, are free or for-fee, or we do or don’t receive financial compensation for featuring them. This includes, whenever relevant, providing realistic fact-based data and disclaimers, and emphasizing that the variables influencing the results that people get through using these resources are so numerous and uncontrollable that it is absolutely impossible to make any guarantees whatever about the results that any given person might get from using these resources.
- We also want you to be aware that it’s not always possible to specify these material connections in every single advertisement or affiliate link. So, whether you are on one of our websites, or someone else’s, never give your power away to anyone. “Caveat emptor” is Latin for “buyer beware.” We would modify that to say, “consumer discernment is ultimately and always in your hands and no one else’s.” One way to practice “safe consumerism” is to always assume there is a material connection and that the entity publicizing a product or service might receive compensation (in money or some other form) from anything you purchase via any website, including this one, simply by you clicking a link that takes you to another site. As a commitment to your own “safe consumerism” we strongly recommend that you assume this is the case no matter whose website you’re on and regardless of whether that website includes an informed consent document like this one.

We are an Amazon.com affiliate. Additionally, one or more parties affiliated or associated with this and any of our websites, might also be an Amazon.com affiliate. This means that links to products on Amazon.com, as well as reviews leading to purchases, might result in a commission being earned. Again, because it isn’t always feasible to disclose this material connection and the potential for compensation at every single possible opportunity, your best “safe consumerism” strategy on our (and indeed all) websites is to simply assume there is a material connection and potential for compensation at all times.

- While it is a matter of both mission and policy that Health Connections Dentistry LLC, Claire Stagg DDS PA, never provide skewed or unduly biased reviews of any products or services we feature, we still want to provide you with full disclosure about all of this.
- Compensation Summary: In short, what all of the above means is that, even though it is NOT always the case, your best “safe consumerism” strategy is to always assume that we may be compensated for purchases of products or services we mention on this and all of our Health Connections Dentistry, LLC, Claire Stagg DDS PA websites, regardless of whether or not these are created, owned, licensed, or otherwise materially controlled by us. Stated another way, while most people obviously understand that individuals make a living by way of the profit that remains after the costs associated with providing a product or service, some consumers do not yet fully understand that a third party can “affiliate” with someone else’s products or services and through that affiliation be compensated by the creator/owner/distributor of that product or service for helping spread the word about it. A simple way to understand this is to think about how retail stores make a living: they seldom produce products themselves, but rather make their money by connecting product manufacturers with purchasers of those products.
- Admonition: Claire Stagg DDS PA and Health Connections Dentistry’s commitment to ethical business practices notwithstanding, it is wisest to not count on anyone looking after your interests but you. This means the buck stops with you: do whatever amount of your own research and due diligence about various offers and opportunities that you feel a need to do in order to assume full responsibility for your product or service purchase decisions with us or anyone else. Here is a set of guidelines for doing this that you might benefit from keeping in mind:
 - First, just always operate from the position that any website proprietor, including us at Claire Stagg DDS PA and Health Connections Dentistry, LLC, will have a material connection to the product or service provider, and may be compensated as a result of your purchase, unless expressly stated otherwise. Aside from your purchases, note that even your actions could result in earnings for this website. For instance, there could be ads displayed on this website that we are compensated for displaying whenever a website visitor clicks on them.
 - Second, to the extent that we have every interest in positively furthering our business relationship with you, we certainly desire to share only those offerings that we believe will benefit you. Just because we are not the founder or originator of the product or service, we are not going to withhold knowledge of this offering from you. If you can get some benefit from it, regardless of whether or not you’ve taken advantage of our own products and/or services, we want you to do well. Thus, we make a good faith effort to only present to you items that we either personally use, have actually tried, or else have faith in the reputation of the provider or concept. You can count on us making this determination based on all relevant and applicable information at the time of the recommendation.

- Third, despite the fact that it would be counterproductive to mention products or services that you'll find disappointing or inferior, not only are people different, but it's also possible for us to have a lapse in judgment. Thus, to be extra cautious, even if you believe in our good faith motives, you may as well go ahead and keep in mind that we could be at least partially influenced by the monetization factor of listing various products or services on our websites. Furthermore, in that vein, the reality is that there are sometimes other connections between parties that are not monetary, such as personal capital, goodwill, or otherwise, that could be an underlying undercurrent swaying the decision to promote a particular offering. Due to this hypothetical possibility, you should again simply not rely solely on what we have to say, but rather just form your own independent opinion just to be safe. Finally, bear in mind that we might also receive free products or services, gifts, or review copies of items too.

- Testimonials regarding the outcome or performance of using any product or service are provided to embellish your understanding of the offering. While great effort is made to ensure that they are factually honest, we are not liable for errors and omissions. Aside from human error, some information may be provided by third parties, such as customers or product/service providers. The best results are not uncommonly correlated with the best efforts, discipline, diligence, and so on, and thus the results depicted cannot, in any way, be construed as common, typical, expected, normal, or associated with the average user's experience with any given product or service. Exceptional results may be depicted by our website as highlights, but you are responsible for understanding that atypical outcomes may not reflect your experience. Aside from market conditions, products and services change over time. Older products may lose effectiveness. Newer products may not have a reliable track record. Where products or services might pertain to earning money, the same safeguards about use of testimonials apply. Additionally, note that any related income figures are highly specific to the individual or entity that produced those results, and there can be no assurance that you will be able to leverage the same, or similar, products or services to achieve comparable results. The results, though real, may be the result of the conflation of a number of favorable circumstances that would be difficult to replicate, and so you must proceed with the knowledge that your outcome can differ from any shared on our website.

- Professional Consultation: Many products and services are designed to solve problems. Common problem areas include legal, financial, dental and medical. We are in no way purporting to counsel you on issues related law, finances, or health. If you require guidance in these arenas, you should consider securing your own counsel from lawyers, accountants, tax professionals, investment advisors, or dental/medical professionals before taking any action. Nothing we may ever communicate, in print or spoken word, will ever be intended to constitute any such counsel, as we do not claim to be professionals in any of those disciplines. You assume all risk for actions taken, losses incurred, damages sustained, or other issues stemming from your use of any product or service in any way connected with or mentioned on this website. Indeed, such decision is solely your own, or else determined in conjunction with the professional guidance of the advisor of your choosing.

- Use Of Products & Services: The following are facts you should be advised of if you intend to take advantage of any products or services.
- The price paid for products and services change over time. Even the prices of staples and basic commodities change, and there are many factors such as supply and demand, sales and other customer acquisition incentives, and more. Price, and value, can be quite relative. Technology, innovations, product improvements, market penetration, and numerous other factors all weigh in. It is impossible to define the “right” price for any product and service. Willing buyers and willing sellers determine price at any given time. You accept the fact that your purchase reflects your own attribution of value at the time of purchase, and that the price may increase or decrease in the future.
- The outcome you experience is dependent upon many factors. Aptitude and attitude go a long way towards success with products and services in virtually any niche, whether fitness or making money. Circumstances, experience, innate abilities, personality, education, time commitments, and perseverance are just a few factors. Given the smorgasbord of interrelated variables, there is no way to reasonably predict your specific outcome with any degree of reliability or certainty.
- Income-Producing Products & Services are likewise subject to the above cautions. In addition, however, there are additional factors we like to point out on our websites. Unlike weight loss products or self-help materials, income-producing methods are influenced by the overall health of the economy in which one operates. In times of liquidity, money flows freely and commerce is easier. In times of perceived scarcity, fear, recession, depression, or otherwise, commerce is stymied. Results can be influenced by market sentiment, just as the stock market indices around the world are swayed heavily on news. Income-producing products & services purchased should be viewed as just that – purchases. Though they can be investments in one’s business, it is not unreasonable to expect that there may not be an express return on that investment, per se. Often, business success is the convergence of a number of factors, methods, strategies, and so on. It can be hard to peg success to one method or machination. This does not necessarily undermine value of any given product or service, as it can have an additive effect. Or, it may have no effect. Since it can be difficult to tell, you should operate on the assumption that your outcome could be zero. We make no guarantees, and you should only risk what you can afford to lose on any purchases on or through our websites.

- Earnings & Income: In light of all of the factors above, impinging on the very nature of income-producing products and services, there is no way to guarantee results of any kind whatsoever. Accordingly, we affirmatively declare that we make no guarantees as to your earnings & income of any kind, at any time.

- As with any business endeavor or investment, past performance is no guarantee or predictor of future performance. Any testimonials or other representations of results are for illustrative purposes only and, though every effort is made to ensure they're factually honest, they are not intended to imply or insinuate what is likely to happen with you. Your reliance on them as such is not advised.

- It should be noted that "earnings & income" is so phrased with specific intent. While income may typify the earnings most either seek or are accustomed to, earnings can come in non-monetary forms. These include some forms that are abstract or intangible, and thus not even readily converted to currency or a common medium of exchange. Thus, note that all manner of compensation, including earnings of a non-income yet nevertheless beneficial form, are covered by these provisions.

- Affiliates & Other Third Parties:

- It should also be noted that we only have control over, and thus only accept responsibility for, the content of our websites that has been authored by us. Any representations made by others should be considered prima facie unauthorized.

- You may also read, hear, or otherwise come into contact with commentary about any of our products & services or offerings, and should assume those have likewise not been authorized.

- While information, in any form, can arise, at any time, regarding our products & services, there may be times when this results from an affiliate relationship. In other words, we may permit our products & services to be marketed through other individuals, businesses, websites, and otherwise, just as providers of goods and services use retailers and other vendors to make available what they offer.

- You should not construe a third-party offer as an endorsement by that third party of any product or service. You should, more conservatively, view it as an offer to buy something.

- Likewise, as alluded to previously, note that we cannot fully control all marketing practices by all parties. With the use of “mirror” sites, indirect or unauthorized affiliates, “tiered” affiliate structures, and so on, policing the world wide web with any modicum of thoroughness is unlikely.
- We make reasonable efforts to ensure our affiliates comply with our policies and represent our products & services consistent with our guidelines. However, we cannot always guarantee they will do so. You are always free to report concerns or abuses via our Contact information.
- Customer Care: Last, but not least, please note that our role in briefing you on products and services other than our own is simply as a “matchmaker.” We do not provide any support or customer service for those items. Therefore, you should always contact the owner or provider of those products or services to get the answers you seek to any and all questions you have before purchasing, and to receive any assistance you might desire or require after purchasing. That said, however, if you do have an unsatisfactory customer care experience with a provider of any of the products and services we mention on any of our websites, please do let us know so we can evaluate whether to continue mentioning that resource.
